CONGRESSION AL,

The Smiling Senator Discusses the Silver Question.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.

Mr. Matthews presented a petition rom national and State banks and pri rom hattonal and tate datas and private bankers composing the Cincinnati Clearing House Association, urging the repeal of that portion of the national banking act which imposes a tax of one-half of one per cent. on deposits. Re-banking act which imposes as a say thalf of one per cent. on deposits. Referred.

A large number of petitions from all parts of the country in favor of a sixteenth amendment to the Constitution, prohibiting States from disfranchising persons on account of sex, were presented and referred. In presenting a petition of this character Mr. Cockrell said he had been handed a petition purporting to come from the people of Missouri. He saw by the names that many of them were citizens of that State. Among the signers were a large number of women, and in the list appeared the name of George Francis Train. He protested that Mistress George Francis Train was not a citizen of Missouri.

Mr. Conkling presented a large number of petitions from various parts of New York State in relation to the remonetization of silver, which were referred.

Mr. Anthony, from the Committee on Printing, reported favorably on the resolution to print — copies of the memorial addresses of the late Edward Youngs Parsons, a representative in Congress from Kentucky, and appropriating $600 to have engraved at the Pressury Department a steel portrait of deceased to accompany the memorial. Agreed to.

Bills were introduced and referred as follows:

Mr. Saulsbury said he would give his support to the bill, though he was not sure that it would give to the country a dollar equal in value to the gold dollar. Should it be found to be insufficient further legislation could be had. He believed the passage of this bill would decrease the purchasing power of gold, and would add to the value of every species of property in the country. He did not believe its passage would impair the rights of any. He considered it his duty to protect the interests of the capitalist as well as those of the poor man. He believe the distress now prevailing throughout the country, and would counteract to some extent the contraction of the currency; but it would not give all the relief expected. It would aid in maintaining greater stability and regularity in financial matters and restore presperity, and its nearesters.

greater statution and regularity in unac-cial matters and restbre presperity, and its passage was demanded by a large ma-jurito of the people of the country. Mr. Coke said he would vote for the bill as it came from the House of Repreout as it came from the House of Repre-sentatives. He advocated at some length the repeal of the specie recumption act, and argued that the Government was in no condition now to resume specie pay-ment. It was utterly impracticable on any basis, and especially on a gold basis alone.

Mr. McDonald then took the floor, with marks by Messes. Garfield and Stephens, the donor of the gift and the artist to be granted the privilege of the floor during the occasion. The report was adopted. The following bills were introduced and referred:

By Mr. Jones, of Ohio: Making custom duties to the amount of one-fourth part thereof payable in legal tender notes.

By Mr. Clarke, of Mo.: Giving the thanks of Congress to Col. Miles for his gallant campaign against the Indians of the Northwest.

By Mr. Mills: A resolution making inquiry into the action of Treasury officials in regard to seized cotton.

The House went into committee of the whole, Mr. Blackburn in the chair, upon the military academy appropriation bill, the pending amendment being to strike out the section which allows additional pay to First Lieuteuants acting as instructors at the inalitation. After debate

A Substitute for Buckner's Bill.

Washington, February 11.—Ewing, Buckner and Pheips, the sub-committee of the Committee on Banking and Currency, have agreed on a substitute for Buckner's bill. It proposes to retire the National bank notes as they may be received by the Treasury through legitimate business channels and substitute therefor Treasury notes receivable for all dues to the Government or fundable in four per cent bonds at par. Banks may voluntarily retire their circulating notes and receive for them four per cent bonds, and Treasury and legal-tender notes may be received in payment of such bonds. Bonds herefores authorized to be issued may be disposed of at not less than par whenever coin may be needed for any purposes. The bill has yet to be submitted to the full committee. It is framed

Will the President Veto the Silver Bill? taken such view of the veto power, he also holds that any measure which volates what appears to be a great principle, although not unconstitutional, may properly be subjected to the veto power; all of which means that those very near the President knew nothing as to what his purposes now may be. It is certain many leading silver men are more confident now than they were a month ago that the President will not veto the bitl.
